Ir there was an air of insincerity about the Colonial Secretary's letter to the Sanitary Board acknowledging receipt of the reso-Jution with reference to the appointment of the Medical Officer of Health, the same charge cannot be brought in respect of the letter to the Hon. But what is to be done now that the Sanitary Board has been virtually dissolved and the plague the fish looked quite tasty. As a rule fish on is not only at our gates but has actually made its appearance in colony? We are not disposed to regard the situation with alarm so far as the probability of the disease becoming opidemic is concerned, provided reasonable precautions be taken. It was only to be expected, after the firm hold the plague got on the colony last year, that under similar climatic conditions it should reappear in sporadic form, but the occurrence of one or two isolated cases, while they ought to put the sanitary authorities on their guard, need not cause any great alarm. But the matter is not one brisk did not disclose any obnoxious smells, and to be trifled with; the plague has appeared and every reasonable precaution must be Chinese will see the advantage of slways maintaken to prevent its spread, for neglect at taining yesterday's standard of cleanliness. the commencement might be attended with The following note, from the Pilot Chart of disastrous consequences. VELOCITY OF MOVEMENT. Like all oyelenes, typhoons bave two distinct movements. The wind blows around the centra area of low pressure with an inward ourvature reaching a velocity of from 30 to 140 miles pe hoar, while the whole body of the storm moves along the surface at a rate varying common! from 7 to 24 miles per hour, the progressive motion being alower in low latitudes than high ones. A full powered steamer can gener ally, therefore, run away from a typhoon if its approach is noticed when within the tropics.

"SPEECH BY MR. BALFOUR ON BIMETALLISM.

The annual meeting of the Bimetallic League was held on April Sed at the Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London. Bir Joseph Dimedale presided. Among these present were Lord George Hamiliton, the Duke of Fife and Sir Donald McFarlane and Charles H. Vincent, members of the House of Commons. The Right Hon. A. J. Balfoor, Conservative leader of the House of Commons. made a strong speech in favour of the double standard. He said that the belief in favour of bimetallism was growing, not only in London and elsewhere in Great Britain, but throughout the civilized world. One great change was noticeable. It was soldon now asserted that bimetallism is intrinsically impossible. Formerly a bimetallist was regard d as a dangerous faddist. Le nomiste who placed value on the lessons of experience had before them the irrefutable fact that while the Litie nations maintained the bimetallie system, the par of execution of gold and silver was preserved for the whole world, despite wars, judustrial revolutions, and the discovery of the precious metals. Sir William Harcourt, it may not be generally known, has gone back to the use of manuscript when delivering his speeches. Mr. Lucy in the March number of the Strand Magazine notes the fact, stating that though in conversation Sir William is one of the wittiest of men, and in debate one of the quickest, "he invariably prepares ON PARIS .his speech verbatim in manuscript, and reads it from first page to last." The practice, Mr. Lucy thinks, is due to the sense of responsibility. It is added, however, that his imprompt addresses are more immediately effective than the carefullyprepared orations. "" a see him with a written copy of his speech before him is like watching an accomplished awimmer going back to the use of corks."

Let Mr. Stuart Cumberland and his colleagues look to their laurels! It appears as if the ideal, "a little child shall lead them." had just been roalised. This infant thought-roader, a jolly little French lad of six, has just been examined by "the faculty" at Angers, and his arithmetical powers, which are said to be the result of his baing able to read the thoughts of those setting the problems, are altogether marvellous. He finds hidden objects, guesses the number, dates, and stamps on coins in closed purses, translates the foreign inscriptions on them with the ntmost ease, and guesses Latin charades. One of the most curious facts brought out in the medical examination of the child was, that he will spell the longest dictation without a single error so long as his mother remains close beside him. But if she puts a screen between herself and the boy, he writes after the orthographic style of ordinary scholars aged six.

Long ago George, attired in a blue dress cost, with silver buttons, red vest, knee breeches, silk hat with broad gold band, at certain periods avery day took up his place at the public cross, and, after the preliminary "Over! Over." and ringing of the bell, aunounced auctions. goods lost and found, meetings, municipal functions, births and deaths that might have taken place in distinguished f milies, the results of military or naval operation asbroad, and other subjects of interest apportaining to the public. He afterwards perambulated the principal thoroughfares in the city. It is said that at one time the office of beliman was worth about £500 per annum. In these later days the office has become practically a sinecure. Up to the present, however, to the bellman's house are taken lost and strayed children. George has received from police officers at the bellman's house the custody of no less than 130,000 stray children. Latterly this was the old bellman's chief emolament, each parent poying sixpence for the recovery of the lost children, and £25 a year wagranted to George from the Corporation.
